

Call for Project Ideas

The Alternative Energy Promotion Centre (AEPCC), in partnership with the Asian Development Bank (ADB), is soliciting Project Ideas for the Energy for All Investor Forum 2014 to be held on 7 March 2014.

After the success of the First forum last February 2013, Energy for All is opening its project development services once more to entrepreneurs who are contributing to the reduction of energy poverty in Nepal. Project Ideas that qualify are eligible to receive support in business model refinement, financial modeling, investment structuring, and accessing local and international investor networks.

ADB's Energy for All program was launched last 2008 to increase energy access investment in Asia and the Pacific. AEPCC was established on November 3, 1996 under the Ministry of Science, Technology and Environment with the objective of developing and promoting renewable/alternative energy technologies in Nepal, and is implementing the 5 year National Rural and Renewable Energy Program of the Government of Nepal since July 16, 2012. Both the Government of Nepal and ADB are working closely with the Sustainable Energy for All initiative and Energy + Partnership to jointly achieve the ambition of Universal Energy Access by 2030.

Organizations/companies that are interested to apply for the Forum are requested to send their project ideas in the format given in www.aepcc.gov.np. All project ideas should be submitted to the address below by Sunday, February 16, 2014. The project ideas can also be submitted to investor.forum@aepcc.gov.np
